THE EU-ARAB PARTNERSHIP SHOULD PROMOTE A RIGHTS BASED APPROACH TO MIGRATION AND DEVELOPMENT!

SOLIDAR together with the Arab NGO Network for Development (ANND) and the Euromed Non-Governmental Platform is organising the Third EU Regional conference on the EU-Arab Partnership, from 30-31 October 2015.

On 30 October 2015, 80 participants from CSOs from the Arab region and Europe, will discuss the ongoing challenges in the MENA region related to shifting from a security-oriented to a rights-based approach to Migration. MEP Cécile Kashetu Kyenge, member of the Committee on Civil Liberties, Justice and Home Affairs, will join this panel debate in order to shed light on the role of the EU in tackling the root causes of migration, by adopting a rights-based approach to migration and sustainable development.

The session will consider how the revised European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP) can ensure a rights-based approach to migration policy, aimed at targeting the root causes of migration flaws, ensuring the respect for fundamental rights of migrants and deconstructing the discourse of the securitisation of borders, reconsidering the Mobility Partnerships, and promoting equal access to health, education and housing services for all.

In this light, SOLIDAR insists that the partnership should:

- Open safe and lawful channels to the EU for people seeking international protection
- Activate coordinated measures to manage the current exceptional situation of mass influx of refugees by ensuring full respect of human rights obligations.
- Rethink the EU security policy and its consequences on criminalising mobility
- This should be strengthened by using the EU accession strategy as a tool to enhance human rights protection in candidate countries - including the rights of refugees and migrants - instead of a way to stop migration flows.
- Promote a rights-based approach to mobility and migration as an integral component of the new ENP, by promoting decent working and social conditions for all migrants (conform to international labour standards), extending social protection for migrant women, men and children in countries of origin and destination, increasing migrant participation and contributing in public policy planning and implementation, facilitating safe, orderly and regular migration, through enhanced international cooperation.
- With regards to development aid, rather than cutting budgets, the EU should encourage the implementation of UN Geneva Convention for Refugees 1951 and the ratification of UN Migrant Worker Convention as well as the ILO Conventions 97 and 143 on migrant workers. Mobility partnership agreements should not be limited to release visas to qualified workers only, but should provide third countries’ nationals with the opportunity to enter the EU.

- Reconsider the EU’s engagement with third countries, by building on existing relevant policy frameworks, such as the EU Action Plan on Human Rights and Democracy and the ENP, therefore contributing to provide a coherent response by linking Home and Foreign Affairs. At the same time, partnerships and agreements signed with countries, where frequent violations of the rights of migrants and refugees occur, should exclude readmission clauses.
